The manuscript is held in The National Archives, Kew, England. It is titled –

Muster Master General's Index of Casualties &c 102 Foot. Ref: WO25/1342.

It is in rough alphabetical order commencing in 1799 and ending in 1817. It may have been started in Sydney and accompanied the regiment when the NSW Corps changed its name to the 102nd Regiment. It contains 2019 names.

The BDA Editors have only transcribed those entries prior to the Corps departure from Sydney in October 1810. After that date the Casualty List contains the names of many men who never came to Australia.

The resulting dataset therefore contains 972 entries.

The word Casualty conveys the wrong meaning for the List. It in fact lists any change in the status of a soldier including their promotion or demotion, their discharge for various reasons, desertions as well as deaths and being invalided.

The List gives the full name of the soldier, the date of the event and what the event was.
